Subject: Hadco Launches "Hadco University" Online Training

Hadco is very proud to announce the launch of "Hadco University" (www.HADCOuniversity.com), an online training program that will offer professionals in the lighting industry state-of-the-art training available on a 24/7 basis. Hadco University was created through a partnership with Portland, Oregon-based BlueTech, LLC. BlueTech creates online solutions to increase efficiency and profitability in the trade industries.

Non-product related courses will offer continuing education (CE) credits from various associations within the lighting industry and all courses available at Hadco University will be offered free of charge. We simply ask that specifiers think of Hadco first when selecting outdoor lighting products.

Hadco University's courses mix video, instruction, and interactivity designed to engage the user and present information in a useful way. The university catalog will continue to expand as we develop more courses, both product and theory, so stay tuned.
